The Great Metropolitan Opera House in the Space of an Hour Ruined.

Several Firemen Perish in a Fire in the Dry Goods Reighborhood by Falling Walls—Another Fire in a Clock Manufacturing Building.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 .- The Metropolitan opera house, one of the most mag-nificent and expensive of modern playhouses, occupying the entire block bounded by Broadway, Seventh avenue, Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets, in the short space of an hour Saturday forenoon was ruined. The Broadway front was saved by the firemen, but fully three-quarters of the square was made havor by the flames.

Just where the fire started is yet unknown, but it must have been in the vicinity of the stage which backs on Seventh avenue. How the flames managed to get such headway without being discovered is also a problem that puzzles Chief Bonner and his men. The special building signal was rung at 9:39 o'clock. Then the entire interior of the theater was a fiery furnace, and as it was apparent that the block would be consumed, help was called without delay.

Over a dozen steamers responded to this summons, and as it was clear that there was no saving the theater, their united efforts were exerted to save the Broadway front, in which are located the bank of New Amsterdam and Zancheri & Gazzo's restaurant. The former covers the Thirty-ninth street corner and the latter the Fortleth street corner. The main entrance to the Metropolitan opera house was on the front between the bank and the restau-

This they succeeded in doing with the assistance of the wind, which was blowing strongly from the east, and swept the flames back towards Seventh avenue. All the offices in the six stories of the front were not touched by the fire, but those of the opera house company which were on the Thirty-ninth street side near Seventh avenue were partly gutted by the fire and deluged by water. There was also an expensive library in this section which has also been more or less ruined. Only one boy is known to have been injured.

A disastrous fire occurred in the large five-story brick building at Nos. 120, 122, 124 and 126 Wooster street, which extends through to Nos 120 and 122 Prince street. Over 100 persons were in the building when the fire broke out, and many were injured in escaping.

Many are missing, but the number of dead can not be learned yet. The fire originated in the basement of the building occupied by the United States Frame and Picture Co., and spread with alarming rapidity. The inmates fled from all available exits, but many were injured in their efforts to escape.

Of the injured the following are reported: William Sperry, address unback, head and shoulders burned; Mary E. Hanley, 83 Catherine street, seriously burned, will die; Mary Guinzoo, 219 Thompson street, body burned; Fireman Stack, Engine Company No. 12, frightful injuries by falling wall; Fireman Langwasses, Engine Company No. 38, injuries by falling wall. The injured were removed to St. Vincent's Hospital.

At about 11:40 the front wall of the Wooster street building fell, and a number of firemen are said to have been buried in the ruins. The loss to the building and stocks is roughly estimated at $150,000 distributed among the following tenants: U. S. Frame and Picture; Bell, Butler & Co., wools and caps; W. J. Kelly, publisher, and R. H. Wagner & Co., paper box manufacturers.

There is another large fire in a clock manufacturing establishment at Prince and Green streets.

No Cause for Alarm

CHICAGO, Aug. 29. - John S. Hamilton, ex-surgeon general of the Marine hospital service, and at present in the Marine hospital service here, sounds a note of warning to those health officials in the country who are doing much to convince the public that cholera is near at hand. Prof. Hamilton takes the view that while there is danger, there is absolutely no occasion for alarm. Unnecessary and repeated warnings, he says, are liable to produce a panic and result injuriously.

Free Canals Probable

Tononto, Ont., Aug. 20.-The Mail's Montreal correspondent says he was informed by a prominent conservative, who is in close relations with members of the Dominion cabinet, that the government would probably adopt a policy of free canals before the next session of parliament. Color is given to this statement by a significant article in the Gazette (the government paper) which advocates the freeing of the canals.

THE LAST DAY.

The Weather Excellent and the Crowd Large-Class of the Meeting.

WONDERFUL TIME BY A TWO-YEAR-OLD.

Successful Exhibitors in the Arena-The Meeting a Very Successful One.

The fifth and last day of the fair was signalized by one of the largest crowds of the week, larger than on any day except Thursday. On the first two days the attendance was not up to expectations, but the last three drew immense crowds of people from far and near.

In most respects the meeting has been a most satisfactory one. There were one or two drawbacks for which no blame can be attached to the management. The failure of the 2:18 trot to come off was the source of much disappointment poned from Thursday until Saturday with the feeling on the part of the man-agement that it would take place to a certainty. It was not known until Friday night that the race would have to be stricken from the program entirely owing to the critical illness of Uncle Jack Hook, the owner and driver of the famous Dr. Sparks, the central figure of cinnati Tobacco Warehouse stake for In the latter three started, Georgia Lee, by Gambetta Wilkes, owned by Cecil Bros., Danville. Kentucky Girl, Antees, T. E. Moore, Shawhan and Jay Hawk,

Jay Bird, E. Clasby, Georgetown. Jay Hawk proved too much for his competitors, distancing them both in the first heat, thereby winning the entire stake of $1,000. His time, 2:204 is one of the best ever made by a two-year-old, having the track advertised. Judge Perkins has a spect an explosion in five minutes been beat in but few instances. He was slowed up considerably in the last quarter by his driver or he would probably have broken the record for two-year-olds.

Five horses started in the 2:26 trot: Jack Offutt, owned by V. V. Carpenter. Shelbyville; Moquette, by Wilton, T. E. Drake, Lexington; Andy Cutter, Cyclone, Crit Davis, Harrodsburg; Billy Wilkes, W. A. Russell, Danville, and Verlinda B., owned by Scott Hudson. It was by far the most interesting contest of the day. It looked in the first two heats like any body's race, but the knowing ones stuck to Moquette all the time though in the first heat he was last under the wire. took the last three heats winning the race; Billy Wilkes second and Verlinda B. third. The Judges thought that Hudson, the driver of Verlinda B., not trying to win and put A. B. Hutchings of Danville in his place in the last heat but to no purpose.

H. L. won the last two heats that were gone and Gillette the first. Time 3:19, 2:18, 2:20. J. H. L. can easily pace a mile in less than 2:13, going in 2:12} at Latonia Race Track.

A special from Covington to The Cou

ter Journal says: Considerable surprise was created here by the report which has been verified that Judge George G. Perkins, so long associated in the management of the Latonia Race Track, had disposed of his entire interest in the concern, and is to have no further connection with it. The Garfield Park wners and other Chicago men were in the deal, and that they had captured a controlling interest in Latonia. This, however, has been denounced as false unqualifiedly by Secretary Ed. Hopper, who says that not a dollar's worth of the stock has gone to any of the Chica-goans. The Perkins interest, he says, has been purchased by a syndicate of Kentuckians, to whom he negotiated the been wanting to dispose of his interest for more than a year. His stock with other that is also controlled by the syndi cate, is 51% of the entire stock. Nothing is stated as to the amount that was paid for the stock. It is supposed, however, to be something between $70,000 and

$80,000 Judge Perkins was one of the originators of the track, and has been the chief manager in its affairs up to the present. His severing his connection is much regretted. No change in the general management or policy will follow, and, save the absence of Judge Perkins, matters will go on as before.

Colonel Frank P. Helm, it now becomes interest in the track. He, too, was one of the managers, though not so heavy a stockholder as Judge Perkins. This is denied by some of the officials and affirmed by others.

DEALS DEATH.

The New Instrument of Destruction the Nihilists Will Use.

The Invention of a Most Terrible Infernal Machine by Russians.

A Secret Explosive and No Risk to the Flend Who Can Carry It in His Pocket Until Ready for His Murderous Work.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.-After years of labor the Russian nihilists have at last succeeded in inventing a perfectly satisfactory infernal machine. The model was finished in London a few days ago, and a report which has reached this country says that those who examined it pronounced it as perfect a death-dealing instrument as could be devised.

The machine is sixteen centimetres in height and four in width. It is rectangular in shape, portable and looks somewhat like a small book. Even when charged it can be carried with the utmost safety in the breast pocket of his coat, and no one but the initiated would imagine that it was anything but a bulky purse. But when the time for action comes the nihilist can take it out of his pocket, place it where the explosion is to occur, and then calmly walk off to a place of safety. At the appointed moment the machine will explode without the aid of clock-work or even of a lighted match. Instead of dynamite a secret explosive is used, and with this the bottom of the machine is filled.

Over the explosive is placed a detonator, which consists of a chemical product, and is set on fire by coming in contact with a drop of some secret liquid.
A glass ball holds this liquid, and when an explosion is desired, all that is necessary is to let it trickle, drop by drop, through a tube, at the lower extremity of which is the small chemical mass resting on the explosive.

When the machine is turned upside down so the glass ball is at the bottom. no explosion can take place, but when the machine is held upright to that the liquid can trickle down to the detonator an explosion is bound to follow.

In the eyes of the revolutisnists the merit of this machine lies in the fact that it can be operated without any danger to the operator. Moreover, it is always ready and can be regulated to a moment. Heretofore clockwork or a lighted match was necessary to produce an explosion, and the result was that once set going, the machine could not be stopped. This new machine, however, can be stopped at any moment before the explosion takes places.

After placing it in position, the oprator may decide to postpose the shakeup for awhile, and then all that will be necessary for him to do will be to turn the infernal device upside down and put it back in his pocket.

He will run absolutely no risk in handling the machine, for by means of the five plugs of blotting paper in the glass tube he can determine the very whereas, if he uses the five plugs of blotting paper, he may reckon on a full hour's flight before the liquid touches the detonator. Nihilists consider the invention of this machine almost as imporant as the invention of dynamite, and are very anxious to learn what steps the authorities will take to guard themselves from it. When dynamite bombs came into use among anarchists the authorities in France and other countries placed many restrictions on the sale of dynamite, and it is assumed revolutionary circles that they known for the first time, has also sold his will pursue the same policy now, and by restricting the sale of the danzerous chemicals and explosive render it difficult, though hardly impossible, for their implacable enemies to do much harm with this new instrument of destruction. What will make their task specially difficult is the fact that they to not know what kind of explosive and liquid is used in the new machine, and nihilists are determined that they shall not be enlightened on this point.
